

Geographische und statistische Uebersicht des Reg.-Bez. Liegnitz.

A historical map of the Lower Silesian region, specifically the area around the Oder River. The map shows several towns and landmarks, including Kirschau, Görlitz, Bautzen, Döbeln, Riesa, Grimma, Freiberg, and Grünberg. A red line traces a path from Kirschau through Görlitz and Bautzen, eventually leading to Grünberg. The map also includes a legend at the top right and various place names and geographical features throughout.

The map illustrates the Prussian Province of Pomerania (Pommern) during the period of the German Confederation (1815-1863). It shows the provincial boundaries and the locations of various districts and towns. The map includes labels for major cities like Stettin, Danzig, Königsberg, and Berlin, as well as numerous smaller towns and administrative centers. The map is color-coded to distinguish between different districts.

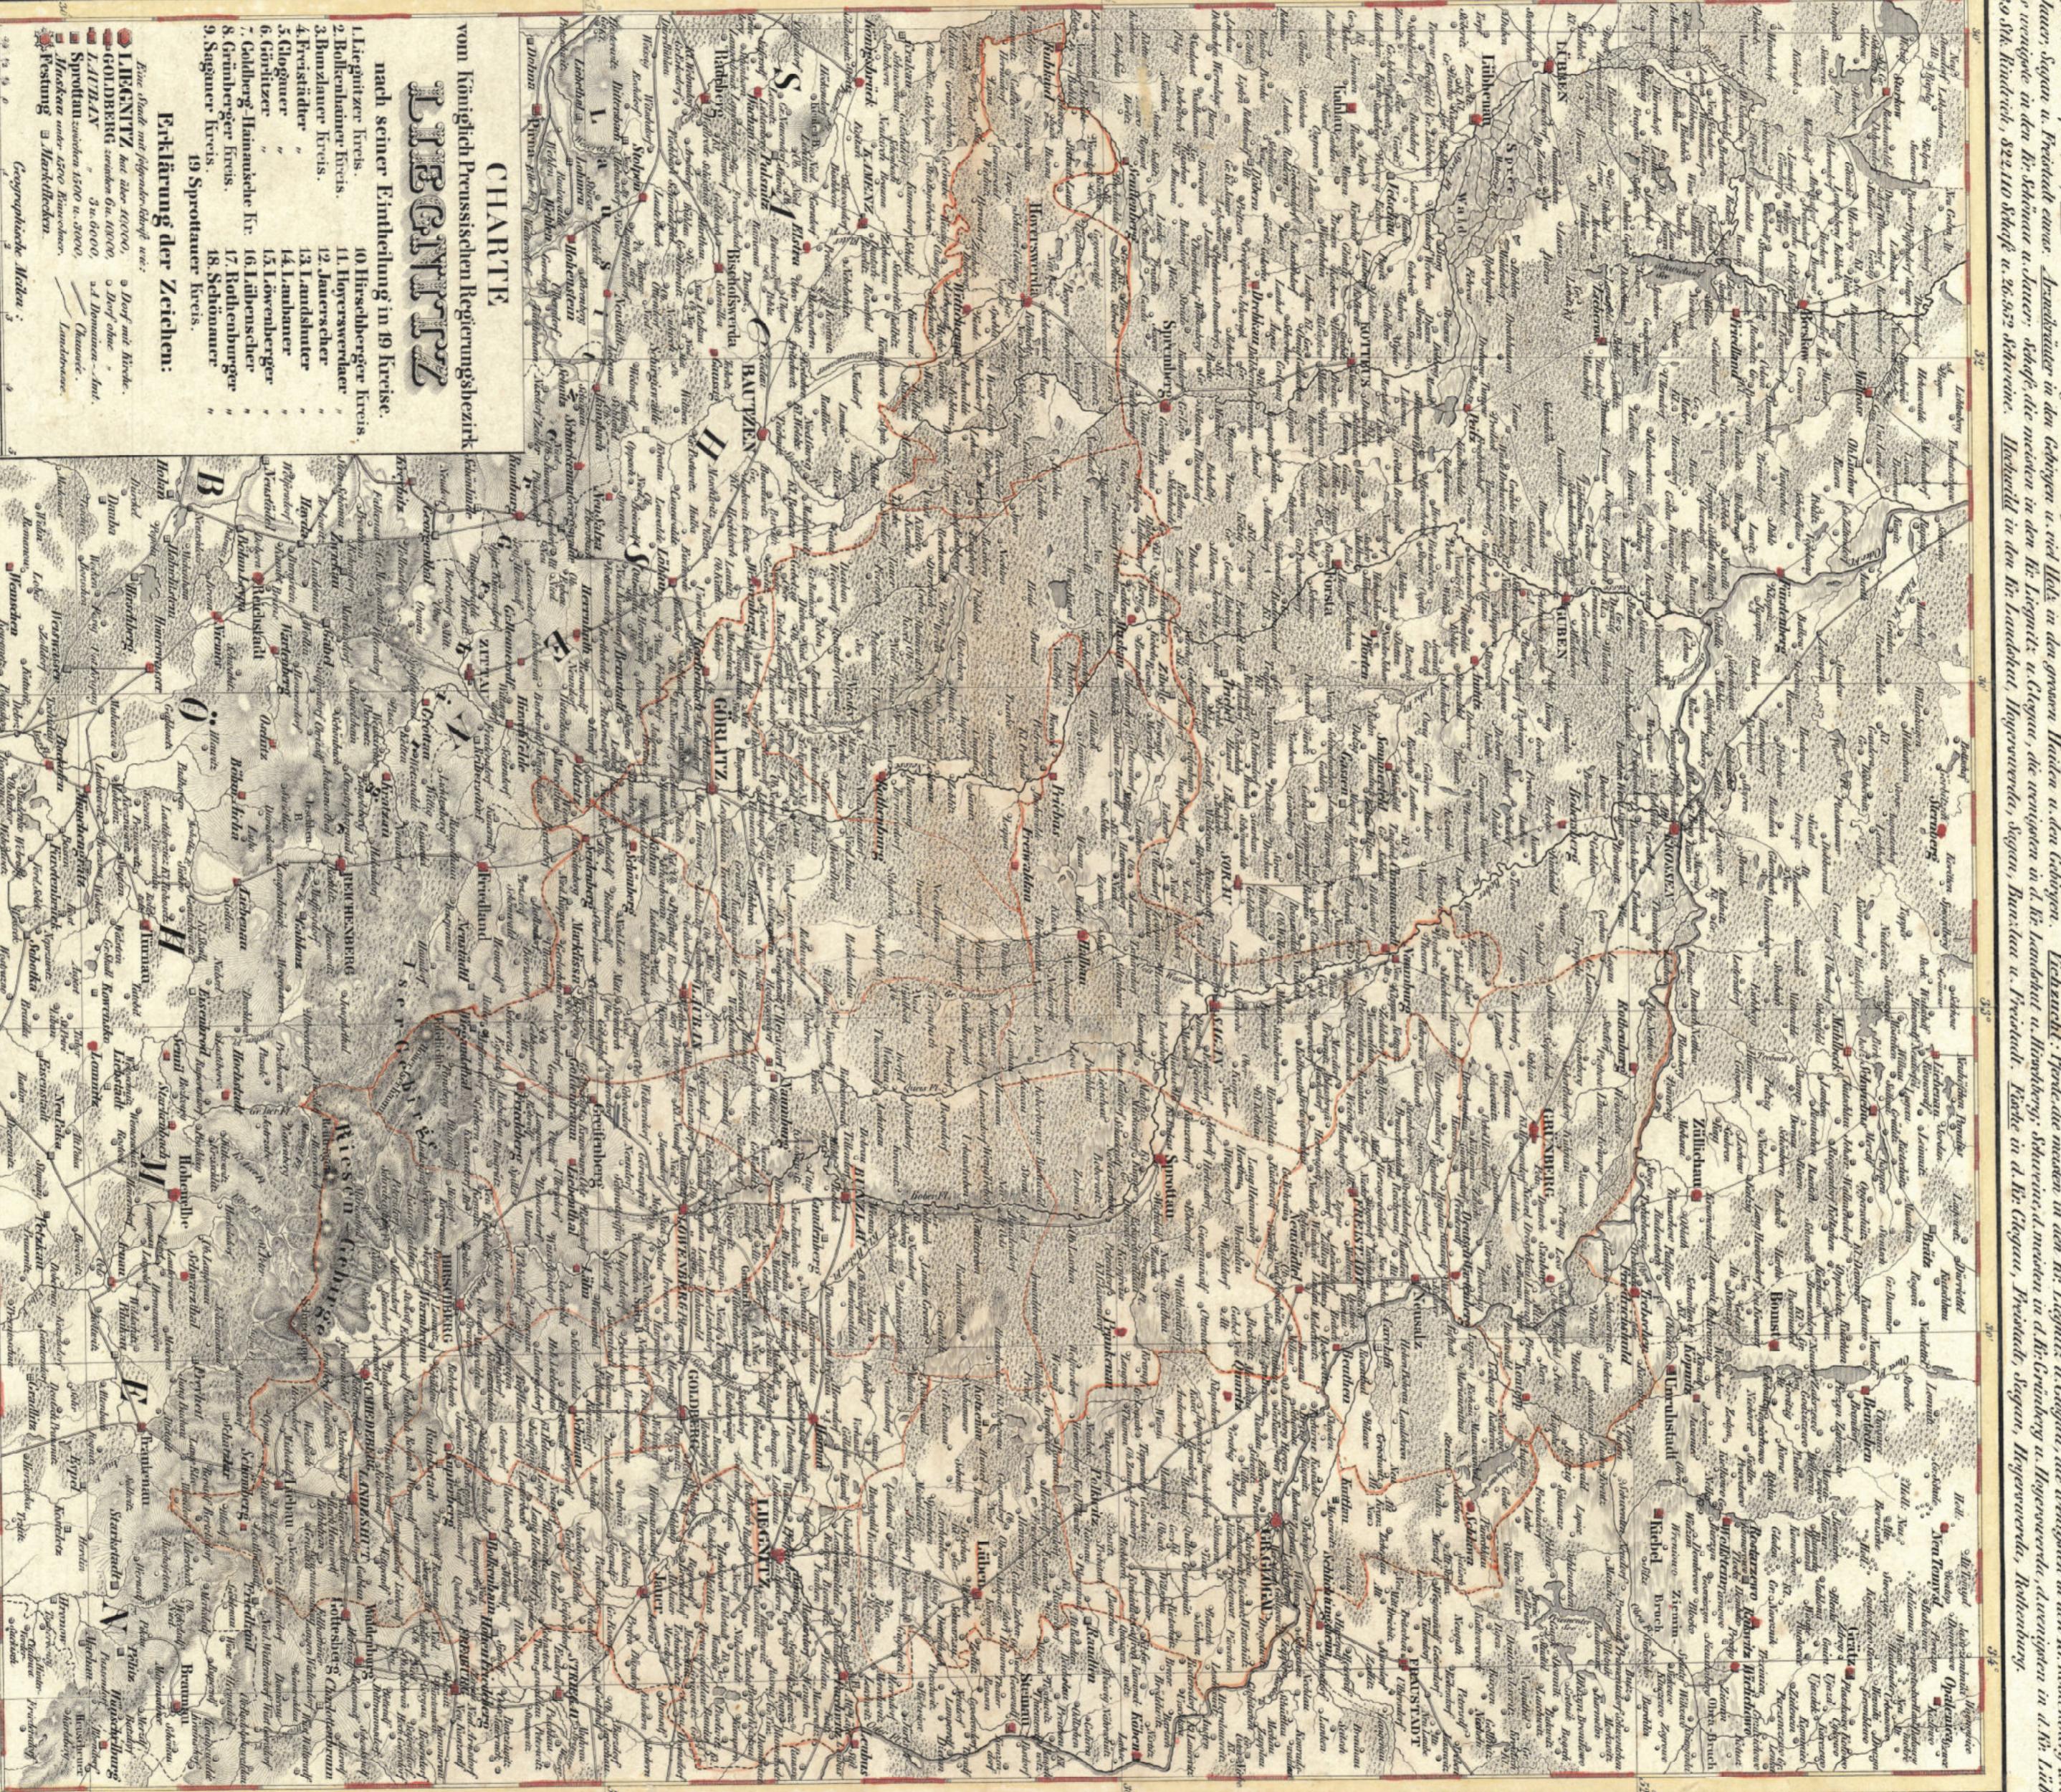

This historical map illustrates the administrative divisions of the Lower Franconian Landshut district in 1830. The map shows several districts (Kreise) and their sub-districts (Gemeinden). Key districts include Würzburg, Schweinfurt, Kitzingen, Haßfurt, Volkach, Lichtenfels, Coburg, Kulmbach, Hof, Hofmark, Bamberg, and Bayreuth. Numerous towns and villages are labeled throughout the area. The map also features a network of roads and major rivers like the Main and Regnitz.

The figure is a vertical geographic map of the Lower Silesian region. At the top, it lists several towns with their populations: Wilna (16,600), Röbeln (7,460), and Platten Land (30,007). Below these, a red border contains the word 'Festung' and 'Märkische Meile'. The map features a grid with horizontal lines at 3° intervals and vertical lines at 30° intervals. Towns like Bautzen, Görlitz, Hoyerswerda, Kamenz, Kamenz, Löbau, Radeberg, Riesa, Ruhland, Schleiz, and Zittau are marked. Rivers shown include the Neisse, Oder, and Elbe. A large mountain range, the Erzgebirge, is depicted in the eastern part of the map. A legend in the bottom right corner defines symbols for 'Städte unter 10,000 Einwohnern' (towns under 10,000 inhabitants) and 'Grenzen der Provinzien' (provincial boundaries).
