

	Object: Atom-Kraft-Kreisel-Motor Museum: Ausstellung 'Karl Hans Janke' Schloss Hubertusburg, Haus 21 04779 Wermsdorf +49 (0) 34364 549840 ausstellung@karl-hans-janke.de Collection: Maschinen Inventory number: MAS 392
--	--

Description

Janke's drawings of machines are partly based on developments of his time, which he functionally extended to new application areas, also for the context of the Hubertusburger Clinic-Everyday.

The concrete functionality flows here, however, with the utopian dimension of his work and his vision of Raumelektrizität together.

Beyond that, Janke advocates for the recognition of his realities implicitly, also mediated through the dimension of the Aesthetic. This question of „Design“ brings together the various fields of his artistic research and makes the utopian horizon visible, which also goes beyond the functional here.

„Für Fahrzeugantriebe und Antriebe aller Art!“

Basic data

Material/Technique: Farbige Mischtechnik auf Papier
Measurements: 136 x 30 cm

Events

[Relationship to location]	When
	Who
	Where	Hubertusburg
[Relation to time]	When	1952
	Who

	Where
[Relation to person or institution]	When
	Who	Karl Hans Janke (1909-1988)
	Where

Keywords

- Atom
- Drawing
- Energy
- Engine
- Invention
- Machine
- Propulsion
- Psychiatry
- Raumelektrizität